“ 'This is Allen my coworker at Spirit. Allen and I talked almost everyday he was my bubby..... I feel like I know his wife & children and grand babies even tho I haven"t never met them because we talked so much. Allen and I come from two completely different backgrounds and we looked at somethings totally in a different light. Allen has taught me it"s ok to agree to disagree and to understand how we are entitled to our own thoughts... opinions... point of views by still respectfully looking at others as to why they think that way and respect them for it..... I will miss my friend but I will take all the conversations with me along my journey. \n\nR.I.P Allen, my friend you are already very missed.... Work will never be the same.'
