“ Dave and I met at Oklahoma State when I was a freshman. he and his roommate were across the hall from me and my roommate. I liked him immediately. We shared a passion for football and played intramural ball and pick-up games on the lawn of our dorm Cordell Hall, which we affectionately dubbed “The Toilet Bowl.” My sophomore year Dave and I became roomies and became good friends to the point I considered him more like a brother. He spent time in my home and I spent time at his. Dave was smitten by a girl named Jean and I was a groomsman at his wedding. He was a man of deep conviction in the Christian faith and had a powerful testimony. He adored his wife Jean and was profoundly proud of the and family he and Jean had built together. After graduation, we stayed in touch but couldn’t visit much owing to way life gets in the way. Even so, I knew if I ever needed help, all I had to do was call Dave and he would be there for me. I like to think he felt the same. I will miss him till I meet him again on the other side.

“ David, my cousin once removed (yes, I looked it up), was a junior at Dewey High School when Linda and I moved to Bartlesville in 1964. We didn't know anyone else in the area and spent much time with the Burns family. They welcomed us. David was a genuinely nice person. I will miss him.

I have just one question, who will post all of the puns on Facebook?

“ David and I first got to know one another back in the spring of 1966 when we ran track for our respective high schools (Dewey for him and College High for me) so we knew each other for nearly 60 years. We visited quite a few times at various meets, and they were always pleasant occasions. We went our separate ways through college and "adulthood" only briefly crossing paths but then reconnected on Facebook a few years ago. Some of his FB postings were absolutely hilarious! I can honestly say that every time we had a conversation or face to face visit it was a happy experience for me. David was a rare person, and he will be missed. RIP my friend. - Marty Lowe

“ David and I were locker mates in high school. A good crowd of kids used to gather around each morning. I used to claim they were there to see me, but it was David. Each year the student council would select Seniors who were most likely to succeed, and friendlist, and best athlete etc. Usually two or three were nominated for each category. When it came to most popular, only one name was put forward ... David's. Guess they were NOT there to see me.
