“ Hated to get this news . Everything I remember about your dad is a good memory. At any of the big family get togethers he made every body laugh, which is a good thing. He will be dearly missed by everyone that was around him. And I pray for everyone in his family because it's very hard to give up people you love and have always been a part of your life. Love all of you. Steve Howard

“ Uncle Vernon as he will always be know to me was always a mess, but a funny mess! He was always up to something and we loved all his jokes, stories and often embarrassing tricks. He was loved and will be missed. Thankful he is no longer in pain and rejoicing with Jesus now.

“ So sad to hear about David passing. Praying for the family as I know you are grieving for your loss.

I loved David, he was a great brother-in-law, so fun to be around at family gatherings. When Liz and I got engaged he made a wedding ring out of wired metal and took a picture of himself sitting on his porch with a shotgun; he handed those to me to give to Liz! I laughed my head off after I realised he was joking and not serious - but maybe a little serious as to what he'll do if I mistreated his youngest sister-in-law!

David was always willing to help out. Once a tornado damaged the rafters in our attic and he came and fixed them for us. At our first house he installed plastic coverings over the old windows to keep them from freezing with moisture.

When Liz was pregnant with Daniel we went on a family "foliage tour" to Arkansas. Liz and I sat in the back of a station wagon, the very back; David drove. That's when I learned David did not stay on his side of the road on winding crooked roads. It scared us to death, but we lived to tell the tale over and over at family gatherings.

Then there is the famous boat switching incident at the Martins. All I can say is at the end of it all David was in the boat being pulled up the hill by the motorhome when the boat unhitched and hit ground and almost threw David over the front boat window!! How he stayed onboard is a miracle. We have retold that epic story for generations now.

I know I will continue to miss David, especially at our family gatherings. Someday I'll see David again in our heavenly home praising God together with great joy! That will be a glorious day.
