“ Like lots of us out here, I also did not know Harrison personally but I have been following his story ever since Chris Wall told us all about him. Harrison has left a huge impact on myself and I think through his struggle, he made us all want to be better for our Heavenly Father. To The Mosbey Family, you all will be in my prayers for months to come! And I look forward to meeting all of you all, when that time comes. God bless you all!

“ My mom is the one that shared Harrison's story with me. She and I have followed his story for about a year now. Harrison taught me to have faith in God, no matter the outcome. Harrison helped sharpen my faith in God and I will never forget him or his family. ❤️

“ My husband and I did not know Harrison personally. We have been following him and his story on FB through Brandi Taylor since 2022. We know that Harrison was welcomed into Heaven and sitting with our Father because no matter what he was facing, he praised God every chance. He and his wife Mallory are a testimony to stick together as a team, as he fought Cancer and never losing faith. We pray for comfort for his wife, little girls and family. 🙏

“ I too did not personally know Harrison, only by following his heroic battle for life. Not just for it but to spend every moment enjoying the love and devotion of his family. I pray for strength as he had. His Heavenly Father has certainly welcomed him home with open arms and his elder brother and Savior Jesus Christ embraced him as well. May the peace and comfort that can only come through our Savior Jesus Christ, comfort his sweet family.💔💔🙏

“ As with many of us posting on Harrison's wall I didn't personally know Harrison. I know with 100% certainty that God welcomed Harrison to the kingdom with a huge smile on his face and said "WELL DONE MY GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANT" While I didn't know Harrison personally he made an impact on my life and the life of so many others. He went above and beyond to share the love of Jesus and the hope of salvation. For that we honor the life of this young man. I can't wait until the day I can personally say thank you to this young man.

“ I didn't know Harrison personally, I started following his story on Facebook last year. His strength and faith in God touched my life in a profound way. Harrison had a way to point people to Christ even while battling through cancer. He may have had cancer, but cancer never had him! See you in Heaven one day! May God comfort his family, friends and co-workers.

“ My prayers are with all that knew & loved Harry, amazing young man. My heart hurts for his families. Blood, Fire, Church & First Responders. Harry touched so many lives. He will be greatly missed. Harry will continue to watch over his families & friends.

Yesterday driving to work saw Engine 17 at Mowery's. Tears started rolling down my face. Same feeling fit it me at Gus Spanos's memorial years ago. So young but made major impact on so many people during his short time on this earth.

“ I have no doubt that Harrison is flying high with Angels. Harrison's daily post were always reassuring of his faith. He had such courage. I did not know Harrison except from FB but yet he was able to connect with people including me. Thank you to Harrison's family for raising such a fine man and to his sweet wife and daughters for your willingness to allow strangers into your personal life. I like so many others, will miss him too.
