

Joshua Duane Gauger

November 10, 1991 - March 3, 2023

Joshua Duane Gauger was born to Keith and Rhonda Gauger on November 10, 1991. He was 31 years old and enjoyed life to the fullest. He has one brother, Alex Hillyard, grandparents, aunts, uncles, and cousins. He always believed you have the family you are born into and the one you create as you go along in life. In this regard he has numerous family members, too many to list.

He traveled around the world and the United States, he saw different ways of life and believed love was the best thing to remember. He enjoyed visiting these places to see the art, music, and culture of these areas. It took courage for him to do this as he was deaf and was taught that no one thing can hold you back, only yourself.

“ Joshua, I never met you in real life. We somehow found each other on Facebook back in 2011...I don't remember the details. What I do remember about you is our conversations. You were always easy to talk to, and we lost touch after 2012. I had assumed that you were busy living your life and always meant to reconnect and find out how you were doing. I'm so sorry that we'll never have that chance now. Hugs

“ It's hard for me to write in here. It is hard to imagine what you went through to the last day. Mental health is really IMPORTANT to look at it. I hope you travel well afterlife and laugh at us. <3 GREEN SODA! Love, Hemi

“ Rest in peace JD.

I am thankful for being able to have some time with you when we were in DC while you and Avery were students at MSSD and when Avery lived with you and you guys came to Tennessee for a visit. You brighten up the atmosphere with your laugh, flair and your personality. 🙌👉❤️

My heart breaks for your family, praying for their journey.
