“ All your life you have a person who was always there. Then one day she's moved on to a better place and you can never touch her any longer.

She was there when you were learning to ride a bike, holding it up, so you wouldn't skin your knees again...when you made cookies...playing with your Barbie's, she kept playing although she was "too old" for them...playing in the sprinkler...running through Poppy fields in Libya..Theresa got to ride a camel in Egypt and see the great pyramids and sphinx...run in the Sahara desert...viewing the "masters works of art", in the Rome and other European museums, bull fights in Barcelona, flower fields in Holland, boat riding on the Rhine...family picnics at the top of a mountain...swimming in the Mediterranean Sea, pulling sea weed off your legs...sharing the same double bed, so you weren't scared of the bumps in the night...watering/feeding the rabbits...pulling those sticky potatoes bugs off the plants, so we would have potatoes in winter...brushing your hair, when your arms were too short to reach the ends...shopping for school clothes and cloth to sew the ones mom would make for us...caring for kids whose mom's had to work, she loved little ones the most...and she loved Cinnamon long past her going over the "rainbow bridge".

Theresa loved all her children and grandchildren more than they will ever know.

Goodbye sister, rest now in God's loving arms, I will miss you always.

“ Mom, Unfortunately I can't fly out for visitation due to my own health issues right now. I know you would understand, but I need you and others to know why I'm not there on the 25th. I love you and you will forever be missed and hold a special place very dear in my heart. You took me in as a small child, adopted and raised me up to become the woman I am today. It hurts my heart dearly that you're gone. You're now with your mom and dad - Ninny and Dad-Dad and your brother- uncle teddy. As well as dad and do many other loved ones gone too soon. I know you're all up there rejoicing together. No longer in pain. Until we meet again, Rest easy and Fly high sweet angel.
Love your daughter
